Druggist, Suspected Of Franks' Slaying, Missing In Hospital

Man Disappears from Louisville
Institution After Suicide Attempt

ELUDED WATCHING POLICE

Discharged Policeman Is Sole
Person Held In Connection With Case

Chicago, Ill.—Charles F. Heath, a former druggist, watched in a Louisville, Ky., hospital as a suspect in connection with kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks, 13-year-old son of a Chicago millionaire, disappeared from a hospital here last Monday after he apparently attempted to end his life. Detectives were seeking him when he vanished.

Police announced the man was suspected of being implicated in the kidnapping and slaying of Robert Franks in Chicago, basing the statement on information from the hospital that Heath had confessed. Inquiry at the hospital revealed that Heath had made no statement concerning the case, the authorities apparently having misunderstood the message.

Chicago — A week of investigation of the death of Robert Franks, 13-year-old son of a $4,000,000 estate, whose body was found last Thursday in a railroad culvert while his parents waited to pay a $10,000 ransom has failed to develop any substantial leads pointing to a solution of the mystery.

A discharged policeman arrested Tuesday, is the only person held in connection with the case, habeas corpus proceedings Wednesday having effected the release of two instructors of a private school the boy attended after they had been held for questioning since his disappearance. No charges were placed against them. So far investigators' theories, questionings and following of a multitude of clues have ended either in circles or in blind alleys except the spectacles, found on a railroad embankment, 15 feet from the culvert where the boy was found. It has been learned that the boy was from Behmeyer Optical Manufacturing Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., which has been asked for information concerning them by Chicago agents.

Jacob Franks, father of the boy, expressed the belief that the slayers were known to his son and to himself, but could give the police no information regarding any enemies he had or any motives that might have actuated the slaying.

CRIVITZ BUSINESS SECTION IS BURNED

Twenty-two Buildings Destroyed or Damaged in $150,-
000 Fire

The entire business section of the village of Crivitz, 22 miles northwest of Marinette, was destroyed by fire starting in the loft of a barn late Wednesday afternoon. Twenty-two buildings were destroyed or damaged, causing a loss estimated at least $150,000. Fire departments from Marinette and Wausaukee assisted in preventing the flames from spreading to the residence section.

Among the buildings destroyed were the postoffice, H. S. Duquaine store, Crivitz Lumber Co., Graf hotel, Solski's store. The fire was extinguished in about one and one-half hours but it caused enormous destruction in that time. A high wind made it difficult to bring the fire under control.

The blaze was discovered about 2 o'clock in a barn where it is believed boys were smoking. The fire spread rapidly and calls were sent to nearby towns for help. Marinette fire department drove the 22 miles in 31 minutes. Crivitz people organized bucket brigades in an effort to stop the fire.

Lucille Russell, 15-year-old telephone operator, proved herself a heroine when she stuck to her post in completing the telephone calls for the Marinette and Wausaukee fire departments, with the exchange on fire and the adjoining buildings a mass of flames.

FARM BLOCS PASS WORK ON BILL TO RELIEVE MARKET

Senate and House Committees Plan Measure Simpler Than Previous One

Washington, D. C. — Work on a new farm relief plan, simpler than that embodied in the McNary-Haugen bill was pressed Thursday by members of the senate and house farm blocs with the intention of having it ready for introduction as a substitute for the pending measure if they find such action warranted.

The sponsors of the substitute plan have become convinced that the McNary-Haugen bill which would set up a $200,000,000 corporation to market the surplus markets will be treated or at least the senate discussion of it, if it passes the house, will be so protracted that adjournment of congress by June 7 will be prevented.

The proposed substitute is being drafted, it is said, in such a way as to win enough support in both chambers to assure enactment before the political conventions with its chief objects being the encouragement for three years of the sale abroad of surplus wheat, perhaps other grains and meat. Farmers would be paid a bounty under provisions being considered, and administration would be placed in the hands of the secretary of agriculture who would be authorized to use funds of the War Finance corporation and possibly of the United States Grain corporation.

POLICE FREE MAN HELD AS SUSPECT

Minneapolis — Investigation by Minneapolis police Thursday disclosed that the "Terrible Tommy" taken in to custody here late Wednesday is not the "Terrible Tommy" O'Connor wanted in Chicago for murder, the police announced Thursday.

Police took the man into custody when his father-in-law reported he believed him to be "Terrible Tommy" and after giving his name as Jack Ryan, the man admitted his true name was Tommy O'Connor, but laughed at the charge that he was the escaped Chicago gunman.

A pawnbroker who had pawned a revolver for Ryan, alias O'Connor, identified him as a "Terrible Tommy" as a likeness of the man Ryan, and Thursday the latter admitted it was this slight resemblance and the similarity in names that prompted him to adopt the name of Ryan.

Comparison of the man's fingerprints with those of the notorious Tommy and checking up of other means of identification finally established, police said that "Terrible Tommy" had not been captured for a second time in the Twin cities. After his first escape the gunman was arrested in St. Paul.

SAILSTAD'S WIFE OBTAINS DIVORCE

Judge Reprimands Woman for Neglecting Proper Inquiry
Before Remarriage

By Associated Press
Chicago — Mrs. Leone Sallstad, wife of Edward J. Sallstad, obtained a divorce from Edward J. Sallstad on grounds that the man is serving a sentence of more than two years in a penal institution. The decree was granted by Judge James Wickham in the Eau Claire circuit court.

Sallstad is serving a four-year term in the state reformatory at Green Bay for his confessed part in the burning of a body in a Lake Nebagamon cottage. In an effort to conceal his disappearance with his "Sunshine Girl," Dorothy Anderson.

Judge Wickham refused to consider a plea that Sallstad had deserted his wife. He reprimanded Mrs. Sallstad sharply for failing to establish definitely that her husband was dead before marrying Rose T. Richardson on Christmas Day, 1922.

A son was born several weeks ago to Richardson and Mrs. Sallstad.

STATEN ISLAND WOMAN SLAYER GETS 20 YEARS

Finds Moving Picture Operator
Guilty of Second Degree Murder

New York — Harry L. Hoffman, charged with slaying Mrs. Maud A. Bauer on a lonely Staten Island road, was found guilty Thursday of murder in the second degree.

County Judge Rierman imposed sentence of 20 years to life imprisonment in Sing Sing.

Hoffman, a motion picture operator, is married and the father of two children. On the afternoon of March 25 the body of pretty Mrs. Maud Bauer, young mother of two daughters was found by the side of a lonely Staten Island road. She had been shot, beaten and strangled and there was evidence that she had successfully fought off an assault.

Witnesses told of having seen Mrs. Bauer driving her mother and daughters in her small car, stalling the motor in the mud when she swerved to avoid collision with a truck. Her mother told of a passing motorist, a lone man in a coupe, who stopped and tendered his services to Mrs. Bauer as she was walking toward a distant house to seek assistance.

Hoffman maintained his innocence and a fellow motion picture operator, Rasey Parker, told the police Hoffman had been with him in the projection room of a theater at the time Mrs. Bauer was murdered.

Parker, a few days later, repudiated the alibi he had offered Hoffman, declaring his fellow operator had asked him to "frame it as he feared the police would arrest him for the Bauer murder."

The case went to the jury Wednesday night.

BOY, TOWING FISH, FALLS INTO RIVER HERE AND DROWNS

Body of 9-Year-Old Youngster
Carried Away by Rushing
Current

The first case of the drowning of an Appleton boy for several years occurred at 3:35 Wednesday afternoon, when Edward Tracanna, 9, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tracanna, 937 Fourth-st., fell off the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway trestle into the Fox river and was borne down stream by the powerful current.

All efforts to recover the body thus far have failed. Dragging the river for the body is said to be out of the question at this time of the year on account of the swift current. It is possible that the boy was hurled over the needle dam at Lake-st and carried further down the stream.

Edward Tracanna was enjoying the afternoon fishing with a companion named Edwin Van Zimmerman. Various reports have been made concerning the nature of the accident. At any rate the boy caught a large carp while fishing from the bridge. It is said that the boy found the fish too large to pull out and was forced to tow it along the bridge. Suddenly the fish gave a violent tug on the line and pulled the boy in. Other reports have it that the fish was tied to the line and dragged along in the water when the boy lost his balance, or stumbled over a spike, and thus fell into the river.

In the water the boy, who is said to be a good swimmer, made a courageous effort to swim to a place of safety but the current was too strong. Firemen were notified at once to bring a pulmotor to the place of the drowning to have ready in case the boy would be found soon, but the boy drifted away beyond reach of human help.

The boy's parents are quite frantic over the tragedy. Edward was the younger of two sons. The older boy, Frank, also was nearly drowned about three years ago when he fell into the river at a mill in Little Chute, their former home. It is said the family moved to Appleton within the last year and purchased the home on Fourth-st. The farmer is employed at the Valley Iron works.

FATE OF BRITISH CABINET AT STAKE

By Associated Press
London — That the government's fate is in the balance in Thursday night's debate in the house of commons with the issue doubtful, is admitted by the Daily Herald, Labor organ, while all the political writers concur in the prediction that the administration will end itself in a tighter corner than ever before and can in any case expect only a small majority.

The debate centers around a motion by the Conservatives to reduce the salary of Tom Shaw, minister of labor, this being a technical way of expressing disapproval with the government's policy toward relieving unemployment. A similar motion was talked out in the house a week ago.

Sentenced

Harry L. Hoffman (above) has been sentenced to from 20 years to life in Sing Sing for the brutal murder of Mrs. Maud Bauer, a pretty young mother of two daughters, on a lonely Staten Island road. Hoffman's wife was in daily attendance at his trial and insisted he was innocent to the last.

JAPAN'S PROTEST REACHES CAPITAL

Length of Message Necessitates Great Delay in Decoding Cipher

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — The Japanese protest against the new immigration law reached the Japanese embassy here Thursday by cable. Because of its great strength, some time will be required to decode and study it before it is formally presented to the state department.

Meantime Ambassador Hanfura will make no appointment to see Secretary Hughes for the purpose of presenting his government's views. Embassy officials appeared doubtful that the communication could be put into shape for presentation Thursday. They declined to discuss the contents of the note in any way. It was described by them as "very long."

Mr. Hughes conferred at length during the day with the president but it was indicated that no authoritative comment on the Japanese attitude would be forthcoming until the government is ready to make its reply to Tokyo.

Former Government Sleuth Tells of Documents Received from Jess Smith MONEY SOUGHT FOR G. O. P.

Senator Bursum and Fred Upham Discussed Matter with Treasurer, Is Claim

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — Gaston B. Means told the senate Daugherty committee that he received from Jess W. Smith in 1922 certain documents purporting to show that Secretary Mellon agreed to issue a batch of whiskey withdrawal permits in return for money which was to go toward payment of the deficit of the Republican national committee.

The alleged arrangement, the witness said, was with a man named Rex Sheldon, who was to receive the permits and pay out the money. He added that according to the story Senator Bursum of New Mexico and Fred Upham, treasurer of the Republican national committee went to Mr. Mellon's office in regard to the matter.

BURSUM DENIES CHARGE

Later, he said, Senator Bursum denied that he had any part in such a plan and said he had sent Sheldon to the treasury secretary just as he would send any other caller and without knowing his purpose. Secretary Mellon, Means asserted, himself told H. L. Scaife, a former justice department man, about the arrangement in September, 1922. Afterward, the witness went on, he got a confession from a man named Stevens, a bookkeeper for the La-Montagne in New York, "involving Mr. Upham and the whole whiskey ring."

Had the La-Montagne brothers stood trial when they were caught in New York instead of pleading guilty, the witnesses declared, the whole story would have come out, involving both the Republican and Democratic administrations.

The money for his investigation, Means said, was furnished him by Jess Smith, who in turn was making the inquiry at the request of President Harding. Smith's immediate objective, however, the witness declared, was to discredit Mr. Mellon and get control of the whiskey permit system himself.

"Our constant drive was to attack the treasury department to force the whiskey business into the department of justice," said Means. "Jess Smith told me that when Mellon first came to the cabinet he had no influence with Harding but that as time went on, he had grown up to an equal footing with Attorney General Daugherty. That was the root of jealousy and the antagonism."

Warren, is leaving next Tuesday for Cleveland to attend the national convention of delegates from Michigan and will return to Mexico City immediately after the meeting. The ambassador said his call was simply one of courtesy, since both the president and he were leaving the capital. They did not discuss international affairs, he added.

AGE LEADS JUDGE TO CUT SENTENCE

New York — Henry L. Joyce, indicted last September on charges of defrauding the government out of $1,000,000 while war time marine manager of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, was fined $12,500 Thursday by Federal Judge George E. Engh, Judge Engh, after reading affidavits setting forth that Joyce was suffering from a chronic heart affliction, said he would not take the responsibility of sending the 66-year-old man to jail.

Special Assistant Attorney General T-44 charged that Joyce while marine manager of the railroad diverted business and repair work at exorbitant prices to the stereotyping corporation and the boat repairing company in which the defendant was interested. The corporations were each fined $1,000 by Judge Engh on pleas of guilty to similar charges.

Coolidge Defeats In Congress Stir Bitter Sentiments In G.O.P.

"Resentment Vote" Is Big Bugbear of Campaign for Republicans and Objective of Democrats.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1924 by The Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C. — President Coolidge's several defeats at the hands of his own party in congress have stirred up bitter feeling inside the Republican organization. The difficulty arises out of the fact that many of the president's friends are keenly disappointed that the Republican leaders in congress have not been able to put through the administration program and many of them have individually deserted him, thus giving the impression that Mr. Coolidge's leadership of his party is ineffective.

In his first address to congress, the president set forth the platform on which his pre-convention campaign has been based and he regards the overwhelming vote for him in the primaries as an endorsement of his ideas. Yet congress and particularly a large number of his own party is diametrically opposed to those plans. The president outlined his position topically in his first message and here is what has happened since.

Foreign affairs: Recommendation by the president that the Japanese exclusion provision be modified or its operation postponed until a treaty could be negotiated with Japan. Refused by both houses of congress and exclusion provision inserted in the bill.

World court: Recommendation in favor of present world court created by league of nations. Report by senate foreign relations committee and endorsed by Senator Lodge, Republican leader, and other prominent members of party ignoring original recommendation and proposing new plan which Mr. Coolidge has said was not practical.

Taxation: The president endorsed the plan of the secretary of the treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, which now has been rejected by both houses of congress and a substitute bill adopted. On this proposal the majority of the Republicans voted against the president.

Soldier bonus: The president announced that he did not favor the granting of a bonus and stated the government could not afford it. The majority of Republicans in congress ignored his plea and voted for the passage of the bonus over his veto.

APPEALS FOR SUPPORT
The logical result of such a situation is an appeal by the executive to the country for a congress of Republicans who are supporters of the president. The talk has been that the president was stronger than his party and that as a consequence Republicans up for reelection to congress would be swept into power by virtue of their position on the same ticket with him. But that part of the electorate which wants to express its dissatisfaction with congress cannot vote for opponents of the present Republican membership because in many cases primaries have been held and the nominations have been made. Also in the senate some of those who voted against the president like Senator Lodge of Massachusetts are not up for reelection. How can the Republican voter tell congress that he prefers Mr. Coolidge to Mr. Lodge as leader of the Republican party, for instance? The Democrats predict that the independent voters will answer the question by electing a Democratic president who has with him a Democratic congress. But that doesn't help the Republican voter who has no use for anything Democratic. Whoever can solve that puzzle for the friends of Mr. Coolidge will win their eternal gratitude for the "resentment vote" is now a big bugbear of the campaign for the Republicans and the objective of the Democrats.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO RAISE STANDARD OF AMERICAN NAVY

Measure Provides for Appropriation of $150,000,000 for Improvements

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — Expenditure of nearly $150,000,000 to bring the American navy up to the 5-5-3 standard is called for in a bill received by the senate Thursday from the house which passed it Wednesday night by a vote of 165 to 138.

The measure which was requested by the navy department, authorizes construction of eight cruisers and six river gunboats, and the conversion of the battleships New York, Texas, Florida, Utah, Arkansas and Wyoming into oil burners with the installation of additional devices for protection against submarines and air craft. An effort by Representative Britten, Republican of Illinois, to add an appropriation of $5,000,000 for elevation of the guns on these and seven other battleships was defeated and no attempt was made to authorize construction of airplane carriers.

FARMER-LABORITES WILL MEET SUNDAY

By Associated Press
St. Paul, Minn. — Members of the state committee of the Farmer-Labor federation will meet here next Sunday to determine whether there should be any change in the plans for holding the national Farmer-Labor-Progressive convention here June 17.

Call for a meeting of the 22 members of this state committee was issued Thursday by William Mahoney of St. Paul, probable temporary chairman of the proposed convention as a result of the statement attacking the convention made yesterday by Senator R. M. LaFollette.

Members of the local committee promoting the convention believe it should be held despite Senator LaFollette's attitude, although admittedly he is the convention's only likely presidential candidate on a "third party" ticket.

ORDER HEARING ON VIADUCT FOR JUNE 10 AT KAUKAUNA

Railroad Commission Will Take Testimony on Alleged Dangerous Crossing

The adjourned hearing of the state railroad commission on the proposed erection of a viaduct over McCarthy's crossing will be held at 10 o'clock on Tuesday, June 10, in the municipal bldg. of Kaukauna, according to word left at the county highway office by one of the engineers of the state highway department.

A previous hearing in this matter was conducted by the railroad rate commission in the courthouse at Appleton in April, out state highway department officials and officials of the Chicago and Northwestern railway and the Wisconsin Public Service company agreed to another hearing at which further data would be submitted.

The highway department maintains that this is one of the most serious crossings in the state and intends to erect a viaduct over the railway and interurban tracks to remove the "S" curve in the road. A number of motorists have responded to the request of A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner, for information regarding any accidents and near accidents that have occurred at this crossing. The viaduct will be financed with federal and state funds without expense to the county. The two railway companies would bear a part of the expense, if the project is authorized by the railroad commission.

DISSOLVE FREEDOM SCHOOL DISTRICT

School district No. 1 of the town of Freedom was to be dissolved Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the town board in the Freedom high school. The free high school district No. 1 was automatically dissolved last election day by the creation of a town union high school district. But since the common school of this district has not been in operation for two years, the law allows the county superintendent of schools to order the town board to dissolve the district.

The territory included in this district will be apportioned to neighboring school districts. The children and there are in the district are attending parochial school. Pupils from all over the town are attending the Freedom high school, and it was for that reason that the help of the whole town was enlisted by the vote on the union high school system.

How Carbon Deposit and Leaky Valves Rob Engine's Power

I am sure most of my readers know from experience what an annoying and temper trying experience it is to try to pump up a deflated tire with a tire pump that is not air tight. You pump and pump, get warmer and warmer every minute, both inside and outside, yet with all your hard work, the tire inflates with exasperating slowness.

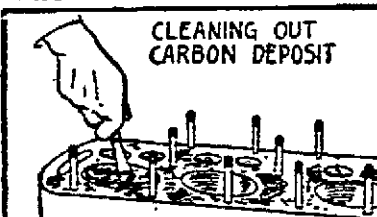

When your engine commences to lose its power and pep, it may be for the same reason that the tire pump takes so long to pump up the tire. Your engine is composed of a number of cylinders which if they are going to do their work properly, must be air tight. If any of the valves are leaking, when the pistons come up on the compression stroke, part of the charge of gasoline mixture leaks away, then the engine naturally fails to develop its full power.

It is a good idea, therefore, at this time of the year, to examine all valves and see that they are seating properly and holding compression. This is not a difficult operation, and can be performed by any driver that takes an interest in his car.

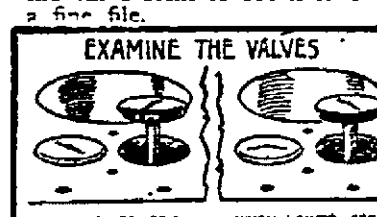

Now remove the cylinder head holding down bolts or if studs are used, remove the nuts on them. The cylinder head can now be lifted off.

The first thing you will notice on lifting off the head will be a deposit of gritty black carbon deposit, and this must be removed before you start grinding in the valves. This carbon deposit is the cause of overheating, knocking and loss of power, especially during the warm weather. To remove the carbon, use a flat scraper and a wire brush.

Start removing the carbon from the cylinder next the radiator. Turn the engine over with the hand crank until you bring the piston in this cylinder to the top of its stroke. After scraping off all carbon with scraper, finish with the wire brush and a piece of cloth moistened in gasoline. Be very careful to remove every particle of carbon from cylinder walls.

You are now ready to examine and if necessary grind in the valves. To remove the valves, pry up the spring under the valve, then remove the small pin or retainer under the washer. If you find difficulty in drawing the valve up through the valve guide, examine the end of the valve stem to see if it is burled. If it is, remove the burr with a fine file.

Take out only one valve at a time, so that you will not get them mixed up. If the faces of the valves and valve seats have a continuous silvery gray ring on them, they are in perfect condition and should not be touched. If they are black and slightly pitted but are FLAT, then grinding in will put them in good condition. If, however, the face of the valve and valve seat have a groove worn in them, and they are badly burned and pitted, then it will be necessary to have them re-cut with a special tool, an operation that can only be performed by a competent mechanic. This operation is not generally necessary, however, unless the car has been driven 10,000 or 12,000 miles or more without the valves being touched. In most cases, grinding in will put the valves in perfect order. Save this article, and next week, I will explain in detail just how to grind in and adjust the valves.

Whoozit Contest

That the Post-Crescent has a group of unusually bright young readers was proved by the large number of youngsters who correctly guessed the identity of the "Whoozit" sketch which was printed last Monday. Near 50 sketches were submitted and every contestant guessed the picture as that of Henry Ford. And they were all correct. The big task then was to select the best drawing from among the fifty and the judges finally awarded the prize of $1 to Michael Gayhart, 10 years of age. Michael lives on Rural Route No. 2. He submitted a truly excellent likeness of the automobile manufacturer.

Today the Post-Crescent is printing an unfinished sketch of another prominent American. Last week a number of "hints" were given to guide young readers in identifying the sketch but you won't need any help in identifying this man. Suffice it to say his picture has been seen thousands of times and that his name is a household word.

In order to be eligible for the prize which the Post-Crescent is paying, it is necessary first of all to identify the subject of the accompanying sketch, then fill in the missing features, write your name, address and age on the coupon printed herewith and send it to the Whoozit Contest Editor of the Post-Crescent. The completed sketch must be in the hands of the editor by 8 o'clock Saturday evening, May 31, and the winner will be announced on Monday when another sketch is to be printed.

This contest is open to all boys and girls of 18 years and younger, except children of employees of the Post-Crescent.

With little care and patience, you can win this prize of $1. Be sure you identify the subject, then fill in the missing features as carefully as you can. Fidelity of the likeness and neatness of the work are considered by the judges in making the awards.

8-YEAR-OLD BOY IS HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Stepping out from behind a truck parked at the curb directly into the path of an automobile driven by Mrs. F. E. Sensesbrenner, Menasha, Henry Schneider, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Schneider, Menasha, was knocked to the pavement and painfully hurt Wednesday afternoon. His collar bone was fractured.

The accident occurred near the Santa Publishing Co. plant at Menasha. The boy was on his way home from school. Mrs. Sensesbrenner stopped the car at once and hurried the boy to a hospital.

Miss Pearl Wolfgram of Appleton, will spend the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wolfgram, at Wausau.

CALIFORNIA A PLACE WITH RAIN IN ABEYANCE

California and Wisconsin are in direct contrast as to weather at this time of the year, according to a letter received by the chamber of commerce from J. A. Hawes, former mayor of Appleton. The letter is written from Los Angeles, and Mr. Hawes declares that there has been no rain for two months. Umbrellas are never carried, he says.

The former mayor sent newspaper clipping to the chamber showing how expenditures of the city government at Los Angeles are managed, and the amount devoted to improvements. Very extensive community projects are in contemplation there, according to the letter.

Gained 10 Pounds In 22 Days

That's going some—but skinny men, women and children just can't help putting on good, healthy flesh when they take McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets.

As chock-full of vitamins as the nasty, fishy-tasting cod liver oil itself, but these sugar-coated, tasteless tablets are as easy to take as candy, and won't upset the stomach.

One woman gained ten pounds in twenty-two days. Sixty tablets, sixty cents. Ask Schlitz Bros. Co., Downer's Drug Store or any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. Directions and formula on each box.

SAILORS URGED TO TURN OUT FRIDAY

Sailors who march in the Memorial day parade this year are to wear blue suits, white hats and no leggings unless color guards, according to the uniform of the day prescribed by Appleton Naval Veterans association.

The association desires a large turnout of navy men this year in order that they may take part in the services arranged at the river bank Friday afternoon by J. T. Reeve circle.

Sailors are to assemble with the remainder of the American legion members at 1 o'clock in the afternoon at Elk hall. Their contingent in the parade will leave the main column near the entrance to Riverside cemetery and proceed to the river.

COOLIDGE AND THE WORLD COURT

Why all the dishonesty and subterfuge about American participation in the World Court? Secretary of State Hughes two years ago took this question up and gave it his earnest and thorough consideration. He made a report to President Harding, who concurred in his recommendation for American adhesion to the existing Permanent Court of International Justice with certain reservations. Mr. Harding's indorsement was wholehearted. He immediately brought the matter to the attention of the senate and entered upon an active and aggressive campaign to enlist public support of his proposal. That he succeeded there can be no doubt.

Mr. Harding's recommendation for American adhesion was referred to the foreign relations committee of the senate over which Mr. Lodge presides. It has been buried in that committee for considerably more than a year. No conscientious effort has been made to deal with the subject in any form, notwithstanding President Coolidge indorsed the World court and stated it to be his purpose to carry out the policies of his predecessor. A few days before congress adjourns, Mr. Lodge brings forth a fraudulent World court plan. It is an invention created solely to stall and to becloud the issue. He promptly withdraws his plan when Senator Pepper offers another in its place equally fraudulent and equally dishonest. The Pepper plan is supported by the Old Guard senators, along with Borah and Shipstead.

Last week it was officially given out at the White house that President Coolidge stood by his demand for American adhesion to the existing court without qualification or reservation. Those who were contriving to substitute something in its place were given to understand that their advice was not wanted and their proposals would not be accepted. It was a plain notice that the president and secretary of state stood unreservedly for the present world court and would not consent to any substitute scheme.

Both the Lodge and Pepper plans are an affront to the other nations of the world who have sincerely and earnestly sought to advance peace by setting up a tribunal of international justice. The duplicity of Lodge and the Old Guard is shown by their attempt to bring out something in its place at a time when senatorial action either way is impossible, and when it means simply that the whole matter has to go over until another session of congress. If President Coolidge acquiesces in this sham procedure he will be hopelessly discredited. We are confident he will not acquiesce in it. We expect him to maintain a consistent course and to insist upon adherence to the existing court and no other.

THE BIGGEST BOOTLEGGER

One of the many unforeseen and unintended results of the national prohibition law—one of the many evil consequences never thought of or taken into account by its friends and promoters—has been vividly brought to light in the case of George Remus, who was brought under guard from the federal penitentiary in Atlanta to testify before the Brookhart committee of the senate. According to his account, Remus was a practicing lawyer in Chicago when the Volstead law was passed. He did not drink and had never been associated with the liquor business in any way, but he saw his opportunity. He went to Cincinnati and acquired ten distilleries in Ohio and neighboring states, organizing a chain of wholesale companies through which application could be made for withdrawal of liquor, apparently for medicinal purposes but really for bootleg trade. "The demand," he testified, "was greater than the supply; people would come from all over the country to consult and advise with me and try to obtain liquor." Permits ranged from $15 to $21 a case. Remus confessed to buying and selling some 250,000 cases of liquor, the transactions running up to the vast sum of $20,000,000. Perhaps the biggest of all the bootleggers spoke of it as "the greatest comedy" he had ever seen.

This man's testimony was wanted because he claimed to have paid for "protection," after difficulties confronted him. He assured the committee that in all he had paid Jess Smith, the friend of Daugherty, a quarter of a million dollars to "use his influence" with the attorney general. The truth of Remus' story in its details may be a matter of debate. In its main aspects doubtless it is true. There is nothing about it that is unusual or that varies materially from the scandals that were common knowledge. Investigations at Washington have shown beyond any reasonable doubt that the government has been quite as contaminated by booze and booze graft as any of the state or local communities. Probably not half of the story has been told.

SPY SYSTEM IN GOVERNMENT

Former Assistant Attorney General John W. H. Grim, testifying before the Wheeler-Brookhart committee in the Daugherty hearing, stated that the "spy system in the department of justice breeds corruption in government and imperils law enforcement." He added that nine-tenths of the work of the bureau of investigation could be dispensed with.

Whether spying breeds corruption in government or not, or whether it imperils law enforcement or not, there is no doubt that its general tendency is to break down the efficiency of government. The department of justice has gone far beyond reasonable bounds in its espionage operations. It has shadowed high and low public officers and high and low men in business and finance, and has poked its nose into affairs unconnected with its proper work. Graft, enmity and contention have trailed in the wake of federal eaves-dropping. Government is corrupted, as Mr. Grim said, and law enforcement is imperiled.

Worse than the spy system fostered by the national government are the spy organizations which are being formed in different parts of the land. For one purpose or another, good or bad, citizens in this locality and that establish associations to carry on surveillance of neighbors. Good government and law enforcement cannot be brought about by spying. Spying sets neighbor against neighbor, friend against friend, and, no matter how good the motives promoting it may be, it is more pernicious than any evil which it aims to correct. It is a contemptible system, worthy only such governments as the Russian soviet, which must maintain their existence by force and tyranny.

The extent to which espionage has gone in the department of justice is a disagreeable and shocking revelation. It has had entirely too much the appearance of being employed to shield graft and crime and to thwart those engaged in their exposure and prosecution. There can be no excuse for the spying on men like Senator La Follette and other leading "reformers", nor in the attempt to "frame" men like Senator Wheeler. Such things are an abuse of government and of governmental authority. We sometimes wonder if the full force of the revelations of wrong-doing at Washington has impressed itself upon the public, and whether there is to be an exertion of public opinion that will make such scandals difficult in the future.

This is the season of the year when one commandment might be changed to read "Thou shalt not thy neighbor's garden."

IODIN IN TABLE SALT

Simple goitre is epidemic in Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Minnesota, West Virginia, Oregon and in parts of New York and Pennsylvania. In some cities in these goitrous regions more than half the school children have simple goitre, the girls being slightly more frequently affected than the boys. In a recent survey in Wexford County, Michigan, 1,283 out of 3,021 girls were found affected with goitre, and 934 out of 1,963 boys showed thyroid enlargement. In the city of Cadillac, in Wexford County, 50.4 per cent of the 2,216 boys and girls examined showed thyroid enlargement; in the rural part of Wexford County (outside of Cadillac) 62.2 per cent of the children showed thyroid enlargement. The water supply of the city of Cadillac shows a very slight trace of iodine, whereas no iodine is found in the water in the rural districts of the country. Another factor which may explain the difference in the goitre rate in urban and rural districts in Wexford County is the more frequent opportunity of the city dwellers to obtain iodine in the staple food of the city market. Oysters, clams, lobster and all fresh sea fish contain food iodine; whether canned or salted sea fish still contain iodine is a question—the iodine is readily dissolved out and lost in the processes of canning and salting.

Professor Hayhurst of Ohio State University urged that iodine should be incorporated in ordinary table salt in sufficient proportion to insure a suitable iodine ration to every one who uses salt at table or in food. The Michigan State Board of Health, the Michigan State Medical Society, the Wayne County Medical Society and the West Virginia State Board of Health recommended the manufacture of such a table salt and at least one Michigan concern now markets a table salt containing the proportion of sodium iodide recommended by the health authorities—about 0.02 per cent sodium iodide.

The rapidly increasing use of such iodine containing salt as table salt, in place of the ordinary article, is likely to have a more extensive prophylactic effect than is possible from the mass treatment with iodine or iodine now being used in the schools of some of these goitrous towns of the Great Lakes region. It is likely to prevent and cure a far greater number of cases of simple goitre than as in Rochester, N. Y. Nearly every body uses salt, can the practice of iodizing the city water supply, and sooner or later the majority of people who use salt will learn the availability of the iodine-containing salt in the market. It tastes just like any good salt, and it costs the same as other free-running salt.

The effectiveness of a suitable iodine ration in preventing goitre is absolutely established. The explanation for the startling prevalence of goitre in some regions is simply the lack of sufficient iodine in the food and drinking water. The harmlessness of the very minute quantity of iodine required to prevent simple goitre (and to cure some cases) is equally well established. Get your iodine. Get it from any good grocer now.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Negative Emotions.
What chance has one for curing himself of negative emotions? One day at school, just before my turn to recite came, some fear of stuttering overtook me, and when I arose I couldn't utter a word. This happened years ago. Ever since this fear has kept me in its grip. Whenever I have to question anybody or speak I get nervous and excited and the fear comes that I am going to stutter, and when I try to speak I do stutter. At times when I forget myself I speak without impediment. I can speak to children without stuttering or to members of my family. But not to adults or strangers. (M. J.)
Answer.—As you explain, when you forget yourself you speak without difficulty. Practice forgetting yourself, by fixing your attention on other persons or thoughts. A course of physical training under a competent director, and vocal lessons by a strict music master, would help you. Send a stamped envelope and ask for instructions for home treatment of stuttering.

Rubber Soles

Do you consider the rubber-soled shoes and sandals hygienic for children in warm weather? Don't they heat up the feet more than leather? (Mrs. G. W. J.)

Answer.—Yes, they are hygienic. A thin leather or cork insole prevents any feeling of heat from rubber soles.

Efficiency Is Remarkable In Kluxing System

(From The Challenge of the Klan, By Stanley Frost.)

The world will always owe the Ku Klux Klan a little something for giving us the verb "to klux," with its derivatives "kluxing" and "kluxer." They enrich the language. We have long needed some word to express the vociferous rounding up of the populace which is one of our great national activities. "Kluxing" does it to a nicety; not merely because of the barnyard suggestion in the sound of the word but because of its brevity, its implied humor, its onomatopoeic fitness. It ought to come into wider use very rapidly.

The Ku Klux Klan has brought recruiting to a point of efficiency which is almost scientifically perfect, and far beyond any similar system. No matter how much credit is given to the appeal made by its ideals and purposes, these could not propagate themselves. It is great skill in kluxing that has spread them so far and so fast.

The kluxing system of the Klan was invented by Edward Young Clark, the man whose huge profit was one of the main targets in the congressional inquiry two years ago, whose departure from the Klan was accelerated when Dr. Evans and the reform group took charge. The system's simple efficiency stamps him as almost a genius.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

At the head of the kluxers is the Imperial Wizard; each state is in charge of a field kluxer who employs the field kluxers. The details vary, but as a rule these field kluxers get $4 a head for every member enrolled; the king kluxers get $2 a head, and the balance of the $10 initiation fee goes to the Imperial treasury.

The king kluxers pay the expenses of the speakers in their territories, the salaries and expenses of minor speakers, officers and office workers and organization in general; the field men pay their own costs, including lecture hall hire. The whole army is spurred on and trained by special instructors, paid from national headquarters and along the lines of any modern selling organization.

The commission system is, naturally, immensely effective, far more than any straight salaries scheme. It keeps each field kluxer on his toes every minute, stimulates his salesmanship and ingenuity to the utmost, eliminates unsuccessful men promptly and leaves no room for discord. It has resulted in what means the best selling organization in America.

SALESMANSHIP UNDERPAID

The actual profits of the kluxes do not seem to be very large. Klansmen tell of three of four who have made $50,000 a year by unusually successful campaigns, but the average earnings is said to be under $5,000. I cannot, of course, guarantee these figures, but they check up fairly well with what I have been able to learn of the number of enrollments. They do not show unusually high pay for good salesmanship.

The total amount gathered by Klan organizers in the last year is staggering, however. On the basis of 3,000,000 initiations it would be $30,000,000 but kluxes often charge notes for a portion of the initiation fee so that this must be discounted somewhat. There should be added, however, the dues of 15 cents a month, which each klansman pays into the various treasuries; a total of more than $3,000,000.

What Vassar Union Suits did in one local garage

The man who started Vassar Union Suits in this garage was a salesman—and he sold the idea to the rest of the organization.

Next—they went into the repair department and put a stop to the Underwear grind with the men who grind the cylinders.

Then the tire man got interested—he was tired of bending in Underwear that wouldn't bend—he bought a Vassar.

The Battery man was low in Underwear—he's high in spirit now.

The man at the Gas Tank—the man with the Chameis—the man who adjusts the carburetor and the man who tows you in—they are all wearing Vassar Union Suits to-day and they are all as happy as larks.

Spring weights now.

Interwoven Hose 50c, 75c, $1, $1.25.

MATT SCHMIDT & SON

"TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR"

a year. Most of this stops in the hands of the field kluxes and goes for necessary expenses. It seems safe on the whole to estimate that the Klan expenditures for propagation in the last year has not been less than $25,000,000, and may have reached $35,000,000. With such funds it is no wonder that the Klan grows rapidly.

Klan Isn't As Black As It Is Painted, She Says

Editor, Post-Crescent—Why is it that we never see anything but evil printed in the Appleton Post-Crescent, or any other daily, in regard to the Ku Klux Klan.

Can it be there is not a bit of good in a movement which reaches from coast to coast as does this one?

It seems incredible that any organization which has grown and spread as fast as has the Ku Klux Klan, can be as black as our newspapers have painted them.

I have watched this sweeping movement, which so many people fear, with keen interest and have tried, to the best of my ability to fathom its meaning and get at its ideals, that I may judge for myself, the workings of the organization.

If it is truly a bad, cut-throat one, why has it not been squelched? I have never known a really bad movement to grow, flourish and spread with such rapidity as has this Ku Klux Klan.

I understand, many of our big men in this country are, or were Klansmen. I've never heard of our harboring a "cut-throat" as head of our nation, yet this must have been true if Klansmen are as bad as our papers would have us believe.

In some states the Klan quarters have been melted because election turned out in their favor.

It is apparent then, that the ballot is a weapon of the Klan. Is it unlawful?

It is their own business to vote for whom they wish. We do the same.

As near as I can find out, this organization is composed of strictly patriotic, temperate, law-abiding citizens whom we have mingled with, all our lives and I cannot believe that they are going to run this nation or city to rack and ruin just because they have become Klansmen.

As a rule we give our press heads credit for being educated, intelligent men and if we have placed the credit rightly, then these men should be broad and far-sighted enough to look into and study up on the principles of such a wide spreading organization as the Ku Klux Klan, before jumping on their backs.

Surely (?) our press would not do this if they knew otherwise.

Do not think I am a Klansman. I am not. I am strictly an outsider, an outsider on religion and an outsider on Klansmen, but this is the way this big topic of the day looks to me.

I would like to see this in print with the same publicity that you give the shurring insinuations on the Ku Klux Klan.

500 Pupils Of 1st Ward At Outing

About 500 people attended the First ward school picnic at Pierce park Wednesday, devoting the morning and afternoon to games and other amusements. A. P. Jensen, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., was in charge of the athletic contests.

There was a good representation of members of the First ward Parent-Teachers association at the outing, most of them parents who accompanied their children. The association's aim is to have the fathers leave their business for a time and join in the play with the youngsters, and many did so.

The children met at the schoolhouse in the morning and were conveyed to the park and home again in the afternoon by means of automobiles of the parents and others, and by the use of a truck. Picnic dinner was served at the park and the main amusement program followed. Refreshments were given the picnicers free.

All of the pupils were instructed by their teachers to come in overalls or other play attire so their fun would not be limited by the admonition to keep their clothing neat.

In his seventeen months experience in office, he said, 29 such cases came to his attention.

Prof. Frank Taber of Lawrence Conservatory of Music played a piece of his own composition at the meeting.

VISIT CEMETERIES TO MARK GRAVES OF KAUKAUNA HEROES

Program for Memorial Day Observance Will Be Carried Out in Morning

Kaukauna—All arrangements for the Memorial day services have been completed. Citizens of Kaukauna are being urged to cooperate with the American Legion. A procession of cars will form promptly at 8 o'clock Friday morning on Second-st. The cars will move first to Union cemetery then to St. Mary cemetery where the graves of soldiers will be decorated. The firing squad will fire a volley at each cemetery. The procession then will return to the river in front of high school where services will be held for unknown dead. Holy Cross, Kelson and Trinity Lutheran churches will be visited in the north end in the order named.

The procession is to return to the Soldiers' monument on Lower st where a program will be given. In case of rain it will take place in the high school auditorium. Kaukauna Boy Scouts will take part in Memorial day events. The program at the monument follows:

Music by the high school orchestra. Invocation by the Rev. H. A. Halunda.

Ritual service of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Ritual service of the Womens' Relief Corps.

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

"America" by the audience with orchestra accompaniment.

Logan's Orders.

Memorial address by the Rev. W. P. Hulen.

"Star Spangled Banner" sung by the audience.

Benediction by the Rev. H. A. Halunda.

In arranging the program the legion committee considered the time required. It is hoped that the procession can get under way at 8 o'clock sharp so that the services and program will be over by 11:30. After noon activities have never been quite successful and the events of the day have been crowded into the morning hours.

KROMERS TACKLE SHEBOYGAN CLUB ON MEMORIAL DAY

Home Plays Sign Pocan for Mound Work—Battle Fond du Lac Sunday

Kaukauna—Stormy Kromer's colts of the Wisconsin state league will travel to Sheboygan Friday and will try their baseball skill with the experienced and fighting Chair city aggregation. Kromer has been getting plenty of raps for maintaining his system of baseball but the veteran leaguer is still as interested as ever in developing players for the future rather than winning games at present.

The weather has continued to be a handicap to Stormy's youngsters. It has been almost too cold and too wet to attempt a regular practice. The last two days have been used to advantage, however, and Kaukauna can be expected to chalk up a victory before very long. Stormy had planned to hold secret practice Thursday afternoon and evening.

Pocan has been signed with the team after considerable negotiation. Clusman, Simmons, Stumpf and Grady with the home players who are improving every day, should furnish plenty of opposition for the strong Sheboygans.

Sunday the team will play in Fond du Lac. Fond du Lac also has a team composed of home players and the Kaukauna lads feel that Fondy will prove easy pickings for them.

NEW CONTRACTS BAR MARRIED TEACHERS

Women Teachers Who Marry During School Year Automatically Lose Jobs

Kaukauna—The new teachers' contracts for the coming year have been printed including the clauses which relate to married female teachers and the marriage of female teachers during their year of contract. Since it is already very late an effort will be made to have the contracts distributed to the teachers before the end of the week.

The two marriage clauses have been added after other provisions found in the old contracts and read as follows:

Provided further, that in case a female teacher is married during her term of contract that it shall become null and void and that the teacher shall not be entitled to any compensation for and after said marriage and the marriage of any female teacher during her term of contract shall be considered an immediate resignation without further notification to the board.

And it is further provided that in case a contract is offered to a married female teacher that she must notify the board that she is married, in writing, and the acceptance of her contract by the board without notification shall not be a legal acceptance of this contract, and such teacher shall not be entitled to compensation.

Play Two Games

Kaukauna—Only two games will be played Friday in the Fox River Valley Homeplayers league. Green Bay will play at Kimberly, and Appleton is due to clash with Hortonville on the latter's grounds. Progress! in oil stove Cooking

Price of Stove as Illustrated $54.40
Without Cabinet and Oven $35.50

New 1924 Improved Blue Chimney NEW PERFECTION introduces an era of faster cooking and still greater economy and convenience in popular priced oil stoves.

Here at last is an oil stove adequate for every cooking need. Quicker in heat, ample in capacity, better in equipment—yet it sells for a moderate price. Because of its low fuel consumption, it is the most inexpensive stove in the world to use.

More than a good cook stove—its beauty adds new attractiveness to the kitchen. Its efficiency sets a new standard for all the work of the household. And it has the new conveniences and equipment the modern woman demands for year-round use.

New Blue Chimney Burner Faster—More Economical

The remarkable increase in cooking heat and the greater fuel economy of this new burner, are due to its new double-wall, double-draft construction.

The picture above shows how the EXTRA volume of air drawn in through the small holes around the chimney, is converted into an ADDED ring of intense cooking heat. This quicker cooking cuts down fuel consumption.

ZIMMERMAN SAYS AUTO LICENSE LAW IS TOO DIFFICULT

Revenue from Licenses Not As Large As Expected, Secretary Says

The new state motor license act will not produce as much additional revenue compared with the old license act as was anticipated, according to an announcement by Fred R. Zimmerman, secretary of state. He says that the measure is so complicated that it is causing much confusion to both motorists and the state department. He advocates a nominal registration fee and a gasoline tax in lieu of the present graduated license fee.

Under the old law the fee for pleasure cars was $10, and for trucks it was graduated, according to weight, from $10 to $26. Under the present law, the fee for pleasure cars are graduated from $10 to $26, while the fees for trucks and motor buses range from $10 to $60.

In spite of this increase, the income is much less than the casual reader would expect, the secretary of state says. Owing to the provision of the law which allows a discount of 25 per cent on cars of five years or older, and 50 per cent discount after August 1 the average fee for all classes of pleasure cars is only $11.86. The average fee on trucks has been $22.47.

Total number of pleasure cars registered now is 90,000, and the number of trucks is over 40,000. The fees up to May 23 amounted to a little over $6,000,000. This is nearly $1,600,000 more than was received in 1923. The cost of administering the law during the last five years was 3.8 per cent of the receipts. This year the cost is 4.8 per cent, although greater work is required.

"The principal criticism," said Mr. Zimmerman, "is to the effect that a nominal registration fee, together with a tax on gasoline, would yield greater income to the state at a much smaller expense, and practically do away with the inconveniences and delays which this complicated law has caused, and distribute the cost in proportion to the mileage traveled. A gasoline tax would also enable tourists to contribute their share to our highway fund."

1924 Honor Students

MISS IONE KREISS

MISS MARIE VOELCKES

To Miss Marie Voelckes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Voelckes, 544 Pacific goes the honor of having attained the highest scholastic average of the entire graduating class of Appleton high school. Her standing for four years work in high school averaged 94.26. Miss Ione Kreiss, daughter of Mrs. Christina M. Kreiss, 543 State-st was second highest in the class having an average of 93.18.

Miss Voelckes has been a consistent student, having received markings in the neighborhood of 95 during her entire four years. She has been prominent in the class as a student and was a class officer in her sophomore year. Miss Kreiss made an exceptional scholastic record her first two years in school but did not receive such high marks in the last two years when she was doing considerable dramatic work. She took the leading part in the junior class play last year and proved herself to have excellent dramatic ability. She has been socially prominent in high school circles also.

lect by stating that the power of good and evil rests in the sub-conscious mind, which is only held in check by the power of the will. In the story Mr. Dixon has taken three characters, a doctor, his fiancée and a convict. The girl, who has been subject to sleepwalking, suddenly meets the convict and is propelled by an irresistible force within to marry him. How the doctor follows them and is able to save the girl from her impulsive marriage, forms one of the most logical and tinselly dramatic stories that has ever been presented to the motion picture public for some time.

DUNCAN GETS FIGHT OF LIFE IN PICTURE

One of the most realistic fights ever screened was staged for "Smashing Barriers," the William Duncan feature which will be shown at the New Bijou Friday and Saturday. Duncan and Joe Ryan, whom all fans remember as the "meanest heavy" on the screen for his work with Duncan, never pull a bow when they mix it up in their picture work. Duncan takes a hard wallop as he gives, and Ryan does the same. Both men are hard as nails and train constantly to keep in perfect trim. Duncan never asks an actor to do stunts which the average actor could never accomplish. When Duncan and Ryan fight they fight with a will. These fight scenes are always taken at the end of a picture because both men usually come out with black eyes and bruised faces after their rough-and-tumble fighting.

"JACQUELINE" IS LATEST OUR WOOD STORY TO REACH THE SCREEN

One of the sturdiest casts ever assembled for a single production is gathered together in "Jacqueline" for "Blazing Barriers," that great Pine Tree Pictures Production which Dell Henderson directed for Arrow release, which will be the attraction at the Elite Theatre today, Friday and Saturday.

Heading the aggregation of popular favorites is Lew Cody, who has been seen in many tremendous productions, among which may be mentioned "The Valley of the Silent Men," "The Beloved Cheat," "Don't Change Your Husband," "Occasional Yous," "The Butterfly Man" and "The Sign on the Door" in which he appeared opposite Norma Talmadge. As film followers know, Mr. Cody has forsaken the villainous roles previously assigned to him, and in "Jacqueline," he appears as a sturdy, upstanding, two-fisted son of the North woods who fights a man's fight in defense of the girl he loves, finally winning his happiness after many apparently unsurmountable obstacles have been overcome.

THE MARK OF THE BEAST
The Majestic theatre today will offer the unusual attraction of "The Mark of the Beast," written and produced by Thomas Dixon, author of "The Birth of a Nation" and many other popular novels and stage plays. "The Mark of the Beast" is a story of the sub-conscious mind. Following along the line of advance thought, Mr. Dixon has appealed to the intel-

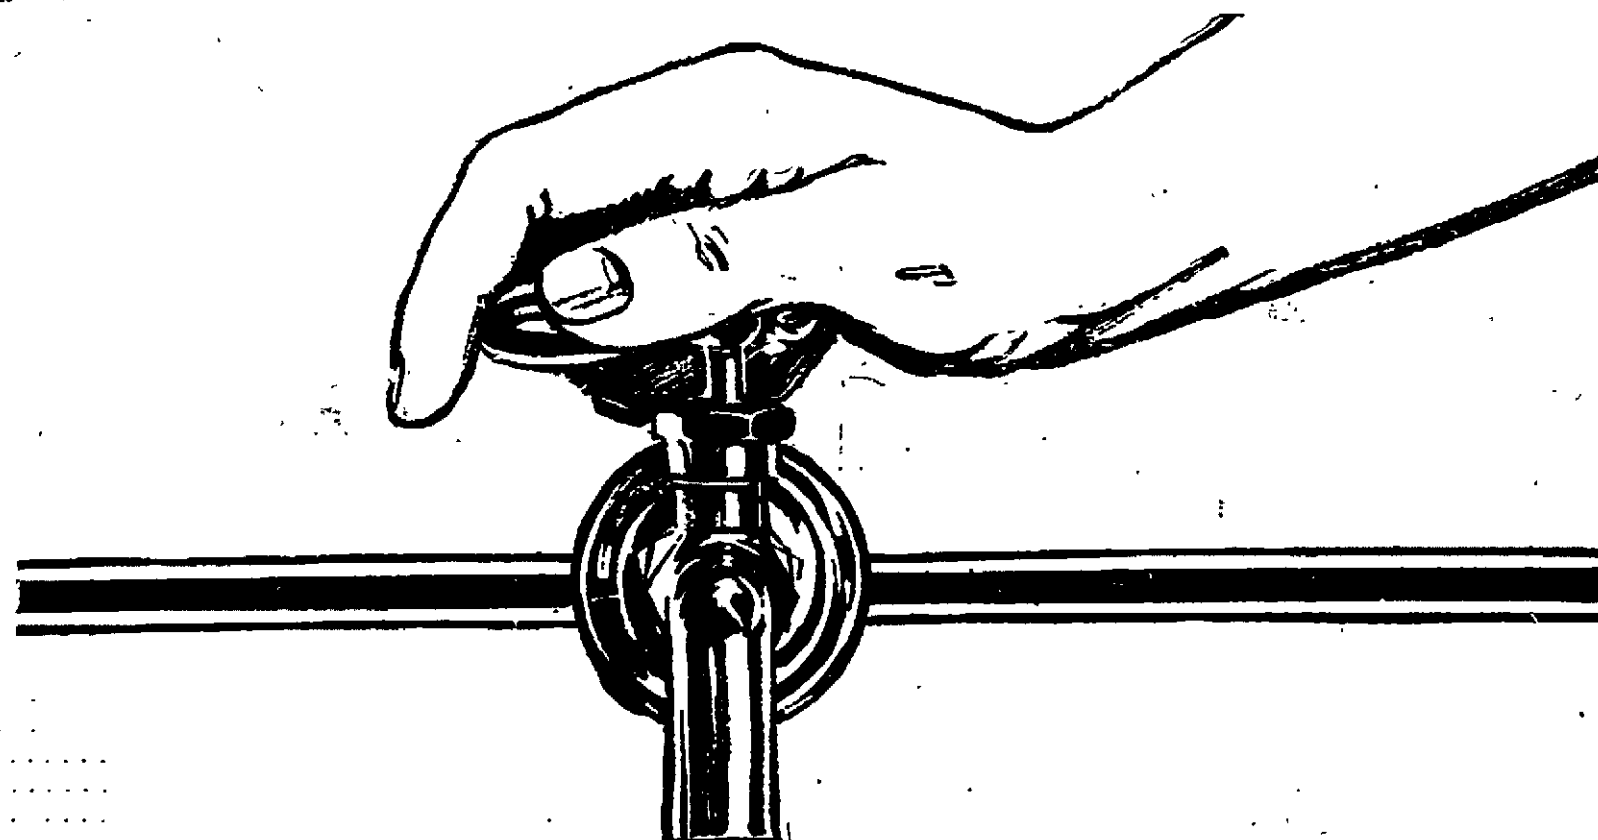

Make Old Age More Comfortable

Old age is not a matter of years alone. Many folks are younger at 70 than others are at 50. We are as old as our kidneys. Too many old folks are worried with backache, rheumatic pains and kidney irregularities. One feels older than he is. At such times a stimulant diuretic is helpful. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are recommended by thousands of elderly folks. Are endorsed here at home. Ask your neighbor.

An Appleton Case:

My rest was disturbed because of the frequent passages of the kidney secretions which were highly colored. I bought Doan's Kidney Pills at Walker's Drug Store and the first box brought relief. Two boxes of Doan's cured me."

TUBE COMPANY MEN EXPLAIN BUSINESS AT C. OF C. DINNER

Directors Hear New Plant Discussed and Talk Over Garbage Disposal

Nine representatives of the Seamless Tube Company of Wisconsin and several other men were guests of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce at the bi-weekly dinner at Vermeulen's Wednesday evening. The meeting was devoted to a discussion of this company's plans, the subject of a garbage disposal plant and the assigning of work to standing committees for the coming year.

Plans for partial financing of the seamless tube plant, which will be located in the former Reliance Motor Truck company building, were explained to some of the visitors.

LOGICAL PLACE
Appleton is the logical location for the plant, it was said because it is halfway between the Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul markets and is in an area where considerable steel tubing is consumed. This city is convenient to Great Lakes ports also, the directors were told.

Those present to represent the company were William Genen, its president, George J. Thust, general manager, A. G. Brusewitz, John Heenan, Harry Leppia, Peter L. Dodd of Chicago, Isaac Levin of New York, and William Schaeffer and William Wirtz of Green Bay.

PLANT WOULD PAY

Garbage disposal facilities which will enable the city to sell rendering plant products to pay the cost of operation and eventually pay back the purchase price were explained by William Laabs of Milwaukee and Charles L. Drude of the Wisconsin Rendering company, who attended the dinner at the invitation of Louis Bonini, chairman of the community welfare committee of the chamber. Equipment of this kind now is used at the local rendering plant, it was said, and the city has been offered a demonstration there if desired. Considerable interest was shown by the board in this means of solving the garbage problem.

David Smith, president of Appleton Baseball association, was present to ask cooperation of the chamber in making this season a success but deferred his talk until a later meeting because of lack of time.

Each of the five standing committees, and the industrial, finding and rural highway committees were given schedules of activities which the board desires to have carried out this year. These included unfinished tasks of the last year's major program. Each chairman was told to call his committee together at once and adopt its outline of work.

A communication from the chamber of commerce at Harrisburg, Pa., was read asking Appleton's support to combat changes in freight rates which will do injustice to the mines in that region.

THREE KILLED IN FREAK BLAST

Three men were killed and the lives of a score of others were endangered when a "look box" at a Standard Oil Company compressor plant in the Santa Fe Springs oil field, near Whittier, Calif., burst and sent a flood of gasoline, racing toward an open fire box 60 feet away. The explosion that followed could be felt miles away. The accident is one of the most unusual ever occurring in the district.

Picnics End Sessions Of City Schools

The last day of school for most children means a day of fun and frolic, for usually the close of school is celebrated with a picnic or party. Most of the public schools of Appleton held picnics in or about Appleton Wednesday afternoon.

Lincoln school grades had their picnics at the following places: First and second grades, Jones park; third and fifth grades, Neenah park; sixth and seventh, Alliea park. The children took their dinners and spent the afternoon with games and stunts. They were accompanied by teachers.

The grades of the Third and Fifth ward schools also had picnics this week. The eighth grade of the Third ward held its picnic on Thursday, because preparations for commencement exercises halted all other plans. The sixth grade of Franklin school went to Alliea park for its picnic; the fifth grade celebrated near Kimbely; the third and fourth grades went to Oak Grove, the first and second to Erb park.

18 YEAR OLD GIRL IS GIVEN DIVORCE

Although only 18 years old, Mrs. Anna Christensen of Appleton is a divorcee. She was granted a decree of absolute divorce in municipal court by Judge A. M. Spencer Wednesday after having brought suit against her husband on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment.

Her former husband, Thor Christensen, is at present living in Marquette, Mich. The couple was married two years ago in Fond du Lac but separated on April 1 of this year. There is one child, and the decree directs the husband to pay $20 a month alimony for support of the child. The suit was not contested by the husband. The state was represented by Henry Kreiss, divorce counsel.

MRS. LODGE: Isn't that your Sedan, Mrs. Smith? Why don't you drive it during the day?
MRS. SMITH: Oh! I'd love to, but Mr. Smith thinks I couldn't. I wish I knew somebody to teach me.

Would you like to learn to drive?

EVERY woman ought to know how to drive—a delightful accomplishment, indeed, frequently needed.

When the family has a car, we believe the lady of the house should have the use of the car during the day. She needs it to take the children to and from school, to do her marketing, and to make calls. She should be as capable a driver as her husband.

And in every prosperous American family we believe the wife and mother should have her own car, drive it herself. It is so easy with a car like the Jewett.

We Will Teach You How to Drive—FREE

We are now organized to extend free driving instruction to women. Those who take advantage of this offer will be taught not only the ordinary handling of a car—starting, stopping, steering, backing and gear shifting—but will be made proficient in the finer points, such as turning around in narrow streets and parking in tight places—confidently.

The Jewett Six—the car you will learn to handle like a veteran—is preferred by women. It is "a dream to drive." Steers with finger touch guidance. Paige-type clutch is gentle. Brakes are positive and easy acting. Gear shifting is so quiet—and then so easy and so quiet. And Jewett Six—as roomy inside as larger, cumbersome cars—has the convenient chassis size that lightens the driver's task in traffic.

If you have wanted to know how to drive, here is your chance. There is no obligation. There doesn't have to be a car owned in your family, nor need you declare yourself as a "prospect" for a Jewett. Just come in and ask to be enrolled for free driving instruction. We suggest that you come early, for we know our offer will be accepted by many. Those first on hand will be enrolled first.

POLICE DEMAND OBSERVANCE OF AUTOMOBILE LAWS

Nearly 400 Motorists Stopped for Failure to Have 1924
License Plates

Parking regulations, the use of Appleton special automobile license plates and the lighting of tail lamps were stressed by Chief George T. Peim of the Appleton police department in an announcement to automobile drivers.

Police are completing a crusade against automobilists who fail to display automobile license plates or who are still using last year's plates. The arrangement whereby motorists may now purchase special permits from the police department makes the failure to use license plates and the use of last year's plates by motorists of Appleton and vicinity altogether inexcusable.

Every driver who is not displaying a 1924 license plate is stopped by the police and sent to the police station to buy a special license plate which will tide him over until the state license plate arrives. The driver must, however, furnish proof that he has applied for a state license, otherwise he will be placed under arrest. Motorists from Kaukauna, Oshkosh and other nearby cities who are using special license plates issued by their police of their cities may drive in Appleton unmolested by the police. When police encounter a Kaukauna motorist who has applied for a state license but is not using a Kaukauna city license plate, he is directed to apply to the Kaukauna police at once, and a checkup is made in his case.

PAY $1 FOR PLATE
Appleton special license plates are issued by the police upon a deposit of $1.75 cents of which is returned to the driver when the plate is returned. The department purchased more than 200 of these signs which were made by the convicts of the state penitentiary at Waupun, and some of these plates now are being used for the third time. Such a plate is inscribed with the abbreviation, "APP" and a number.

Scores of automobilists have been stopped within the last week and sent to the police station. On two days of this week two officers were kept busy watching for automobiles without license plates. So active were they that the rush at the police station kept the desk sergeant and another police officer busy for hours. Possibly 400 automobilists have been rounded up since May 19 when the special licenses were first issued.

WATCH PARKING SIGNS

Chief Peim again called attention to the practice of some drivers who park in restricted parking areas. Parking of cars is forbidden within a certain number of feet from each street corner in the business district, and signs have been erected to warn motorists against violating that rule. Parking also is forbidden in front of fire hydrants, in front of the fire station and at the postoffice. Some automobilists have sought to attenuate the offense by saying that another car was parked directly in front of the "No Parking" sign, thus making it impossible for the driver behind to know that it was a non-parking area. The restricted parking areas have been in existence so long and are so well known that police pay no attention to that excuse, when offered by Appleton drivers.

Another crusade is to be undertaken by the police in enforcing the city ordinance which compels all automobiles to have its tail lamps lighted when in use between sunset and sunrise. Failure to heed this rule has

LAPPEN SOON WILL LEAVE CITY COUNCIL

Second Ward Alderman Will Resign When He Moves from Ward

A vacancy on the common council will be caused shortly by the resignation of Alderman John F. Lappen of the Second ward. Mr. Lappen and his family are about to move from their home at 531 Lawrence-st. to their new home which has been built on Durkee-st. between Summer-st and Spring-st. This removal will place the Second ward alderman in the Sixth ward, and will automatically cause a vacancy in the Second ward. It is expected that the family will move the latter part of this week or the early part of next week, and Mr. Lappen's resignation will be tendered immediately thereafter.

Alderman Lappen has served on the common council ever since the resumption of the aldermanic form of government in 1913. He was elected with Marcus Steinhauser from the Second ward. The latter now is an alderman from the First ward. Mr. Lappen has held many important committee positions during his term of office, and last year he was chairman of the finance committee, the most important committee of the council.

The vacancy to be caused by the resignation will be filled by the common council through appointment. The term will expire in April, 1925.

America's Oldest and Finest Piano

SO BIG

By Edna Ferber

"You can't run far enough," Maartje had said. "Except you stop living, you can't run away from life."

Well, she had run far enough this time.

Roelf was sixteen now. Geertje twelve. Jordina eleven. What would this household do now. Selma wondered, without the woman who had been so faithful a slave to it? Who would keep the pigsties—no longer signifying—in clean shingams and decent square-toed shoes? Who, when Klaas Pool broke out rumbling Dutch wrath against what he termed Roelf's "dumb" ways, would say, "Og Pool, leave the boy alone once. He does nothing." Who would keep Klaas himself in order, cook his meals, wash his clothes, iron his shirts, take pride in the great ruddy childlike knees?

Klaas answered, "These questions just nine months later by marrying the Widow Paarlberg. High Prairie was rocked with surprise. For months this marriage was the talk of the district. They had gone to Niagara Falls on a wedding trip; Pool's place was going to have this improvement and that; no, they were going to move to the Widow Paarlberg's large farmhouse (they would always call her that); no, Pool was putting in a bathroom with a bathtub and running water; no, they were going to buy the Blikker place between Pool's and Paarlberg's and make one farm of it, the largest in all High Prairie. Low Prairie, or New Harlem. Well, no fool like an old fool.

So insatiable was High Prairie's curiosity that every scrap of fresh news was swallowed at a gulp. When the word went around of Roelf's flight from the farm, no one knew where it served only as sauce to the great dish of gossip.

Selma had known. Pervus was away at the market when Roelf had knocked at the farmhouse door one night at eight, had turned the knob and entered, as usual. But there was nothing of the usual about his appearance. He wore his best suit—his first suit of store clothes, bought at the time of his mother's funeral. It never had fitted him; now it was teetotally small for him. He had shot up amazingly in the last eight or nine months. Yet there was nothing of the ridiculous about him as he stood before her now, tall, lean, dark. He put down his cheap yellow suitcase. "Well, Roelf."

"I am going away. I couldn't stay."

"Away. Chicago maybe?" He was terribly moved, so he made his tone casual. "They came here last night. I have got some boxes that belong to you." He made as though to open the suitcase.

"No, not keep them."

"Goodbye, Roelf."

"Goodbye, Roelf." She took the boy's dark head in her hands and, standing on tiptoe, kissed him. He turned to go. "Wait a minute. Wait a minute." She had a few dollars—in quarters, dimes, half dollars—pay-haps ten dollars in all—hidden away in a canister on the shelf. She reached for it. But when she came back with the box in her hand he was gone.

Dirk was eight; Little Sobig De Jong, in a suit made of bean-sacking sewed together by his mother. A brown blond boy with mosquito bites on his legs and his legs never still. Nothing of the "crammer" about him. The one-once house of Selma's day had been replaced by a very two-story brick structure very fine, of which High Prairie was justly proud. The rusty iron stove had been exchanged by a central heater. Dirk went to school from October until June. Pervus protested that this was foolish. "The boy could be of great help in the fields from the beginning of April to the first of November, but Selma fought savagely for his schooling and won."

Reading and writing and figuring is what a farmer is not to know," Pervus argued. "The rest is all foolishness. Constantinople is the capital of Turkey he studies last night and uses good oil in the lamp. What good does it do a truck farmer when he knows Constantinople is the capital of Turkey? That don't help him raise turnips."

"Sobig isn't a truck farmer."

"Well, he will be pretty soon. Time I was fifteen I was running our place."

Verbally Selma did not combat this. But within her every force was gathering to fight it when the time should come. Her Sobig a truck farmer, a slave to the soil, bent by it, blasted by it, so that he, in time, like the other men of High Prairie, would take on the very look of the rocks and earth among which they toiled.

Dirk, at eight, was a none too handsome child, considering his father and mother—or his father and mother as they had been. He had, though, a "different" look. His eyelashes were too long for a boy. Withed, Selma said as she touched them with a fond forefinger, when a girl would have been so glad of them. He had developed, too, a slightly aquiline nose, probably a long-jump inheritance from some Cromwellian rapscallion of the English Peakes of a past century. It was not until he was seventeen or thereabouts that he was to metamorphose suddenly into a graceful and aristocratic youngster with an indefinable look about him of distinction and actual elegance. It was when Dirk was thirty that Peter Peet the English tailor (of Michigan Avenue north) said he was the only man in Chicago who could wear English clothes without having them look like Halsted Street. Dirk probably appeared a little startled at that, as well as he might, west Halsted Street having loomed up so large in his background.

Selma was a farm woman now, nearing thirty. The work rode her as it had ridden Maartje Pool. In the De Jong yard there was always a dodo of washing. Identical with the one that had greeted Selma's eye when she first drove into the Pool yard years before. Faded overalls, a shirt, socks, a boy's drawers grotesquely patched and mended, towers of rough spinning. She too rose at four, snatched up shapless garments, invested herself with them, eased her great coil of fine cloudy hair, twisted it into a utilitarian knob and skewered it with a hairpin from which the varnish had long departed, leaving it a dull gray; thrust her slim feet into shapless shoes, dabbed her face with cold water, hurried to the kitchen stove. The work was always at her heels, its breath hot on her neck. Baskets of mending piled up, threatened to overwhelm her. Overalls, woolen shirts, drawers, socks. Socks! They lay coiled and twisted in an old market basket. Sometimes she sat late at night mending them, in and out, in and out, with quick fierce stabs of the needle in her work-scarred hand, they seemed to writhe and spasm and wriggle horribly, like snakes. One of her bad dreams was that in which she saw herself overwhelmed, drowned, swallowed up by a huge water and boiling of undressed, unmended night shirts, drawers, socks, aprons, overalls.

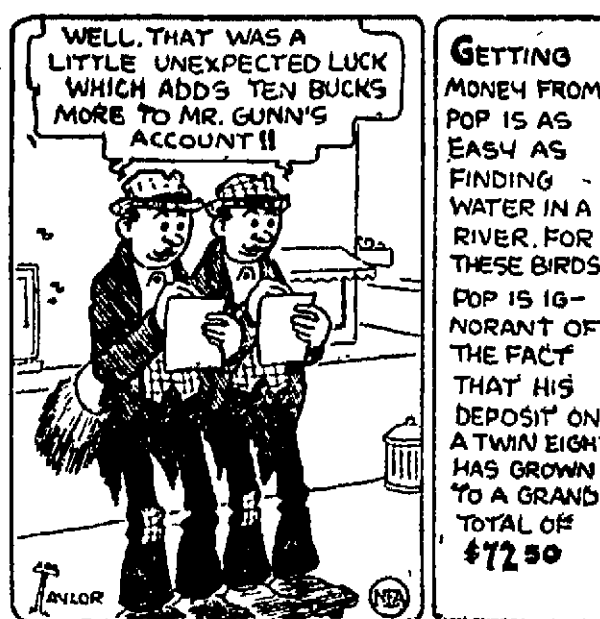

Seeing her thus one would have thought that the Selma Peake of the wintered cashmere, the fun-loving disposition, the high-spirited courage, had departed forever. But these things still persisted. For that matter, even the winnowed cashmere clung to existence. So home-sit old-fashioned now as to be almost picturesque, it hung in Selma's closet like a rosy memory. Sometimes when she came upon it in an orgy of cleaning she would pass her rough hands over its soft folds and by that magic process Mrs. Pervus De Jong vanished in a puff and in her place was the girl Selma Peake perched atop on a soapbox in Adam Oom's hall while all High Prairie, open-mouthed, looked on as the impetuous Pervus De Jong thrashed three ten-haired dollars at her feet. In thrifty moments she had often thought of cutting the winnowed cashmere into ragged strips, of dyeing it a sedate brown or black and remodeling it for a much needed coat dress; of fashioning it into shirts for Dirk. But she never did.

Can't See Why Women Should Vote

Wife of Rumanian Diplomat Says Woman's Place Is in Home, Not Public Life

BY MARIAN HALE

The American woman's interest in politics is incomprehensible to Madame Rose de Covarrubias Nano, wife of the charge d'affaires and secretary of the Rumanian Embassy at Washington.

"I can't see why a woman should interest herself in politics or be interested in a profession or in business, unless it is really necessary for her to support herself," she told me.

"And I can't understand a woman going to what you call the 'polls' and rubbing elbows with men and becoming entangled even in an impersonal way with things political. The European woman doesn't look at politics with the same eyes you American women do."

"I should never think of employing a woman doctor or a woman lawyer," she went on candidly. "Somehow I cannot bring myself to imagine a woman becoming efficient in either profession. To me a woman's place is in the home and in society in the general sense of the word. Perhaps it's just being old-fashioned."

Though she does not understand the attitude of the American woman toward public life, she really seems much about us to admire.

"The Americans are the most beautiful women in the world," she announced, without adding one qualification. And since she is the acknowledged "queen of beauty" in the capital city, we may well value her opinion.

"The costume over here is excellent," she said. "Paris is regarded as the center of fashion, of course, but since I have lived over here I have been wondering just how long it will be before this leadership in style is handed over to America and New York given preference over Paris."

Regarding beauty in general, she believes:

"Beauty of form is better than beauty of face, but a beautiful behavior is far better than a beautiful form—from this we reap more of an esthetic thrill than from statues or pictures. I should say beauty of behavior is the most glorious of all the fine arts."

She believes that beauty is merely the love of measure, or proportion.

"In my companions," she concluded, "I perceptively demand homage to and perception of beauty. I could dine more at ease with a person who was immoral or immoral than with one who was unrepresentable. I do not believe for a moment that beauty is 'skin deep.' The depth of real beauty goes far below the surface."

Chiffon Over White Satin Is Popular Fashion For Most Summer Brides

Behold the June bride! She is swathed in chiffon over white satin with a yoke and veil of real Duchesse lace. Her skirt is ruffled and falls in a semi-train. Real orange blossoms are caught in her lace headpiece and fall from her bouquet. The maid of honor also wears a ruffled chiffon gown with sleeves of Chantilly lace and silk roses in pastel shades. The bridesmaids wear bouffant frocks of Chantilly lace over satin joined to tight bodices and corsages of flowers. Their hats of white lace braid have wide streamers of pink satin. All set? Then ring out the wedding bells!

CLEANING GLOVES
A good way to clean kid gloves is to put them in a Mason jar of gasoline.

USE DAMP DUSTER
Picture frames are best dusted with a slightly dampened duster and if they are carved it is well to use a small, flexible paint brush.

LOOKS AT LADY

In every form of bow, as distinct from merely lifting his hat, a gentleman looks at the person he is bowing to. In a formal standing bow, his heels come together.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN (A Menu for the Stout and Thin) EAT AND—Lose Weight—Gain Weight

Four tablespoons shredded pineapple, 4 tablespoons crab meat cocktail, 1 head lettuce, 2 tablespoon strawberry ice, 2 macaroons, 4 ounces boned loin of lamb, 1 tablespoon mint jelly, 5 slices pickled beet, 1 baked onion, 1 pint skimmed milk, 2 thin crisp pieces gluten toast, 1 thin piece rolled oats bread, 1 thin piece rye bread.

Total calories, 1241. Protein, 254; fat, 319; carbohydrate, 563. Iron .0203 gram.

Two tablespoons prepared cocktail sauce are included in the crab meat cocktail. One tablespoon catsup or chili sauce or the cocktail sauce mean about 10 calories.

The lamb is roasted and no gravy is included in the serving.

If your caloric allowance is 1200 calories per day you may add two level teaspoons of butter and use it as you please.

You see you can eat "sweets," but you must eat them sparingly and substitute some place else. The strawberry ice and macaroons "stand" you about 300 calories and only one-fourteenth of them are protein, the rest are fat and carbohydrate.

The head of lettuce, pineapple and onion provide the mineral salts and vitamins.

FASHION HINTS

NECKPIECES
Many of the new fur neckpieces tie like a cravat and have fringed ends.

ALL-WHITE FROCK
The all-white frock is as smart in Paris as it is here, but there is a growing tendency to use a dash of brilliant red or green in the corsage or as a sash.

PLEATED PEPLUM
The pleated peplum from six to nine inches in width takes the position the belt used to on some frocks.

PRINTED SILK
With the printed silk frock it is almost necessary to have one of the straight little wool coats lined with the silk of which the frock is made.

BOX COATS
Short box coats of black and white checked wool with collars and cuffs of white are worn effectively with black alpaca or bengaline dresses.

NEW HATPINS

The newest pins for hats feature

Sour tablespoons shredded pineapple, creamed potatoes (4 tablespoons), 2 slices broiled bacon, 3 ounces calves liver, 2 corn muffins, 2 tablespoons marmalade, 1 tablespoon butter, 4 tablespoons crabmeat Newburg on two triangles toast, 1 head lettuce with 2 tablespoons French dressing, 4 tablespoons strawberry ice, 2 macaroons, 1 cup cream of asparagus soup, 4 ounces boned loin of lamb, 1 large potato roasted with meat, 2 tablespoons gravy, 2 tablespoons mint jelly, 5 slices pickled beet, 1 baked onion with 1 tablespoon butter, 4 tablespoons sweet cherry salad, 1 chocolate éclair, 1 pint whole milk, 3 large stuffed prunes with lettuce salad, 2 hard rolls, 2 tablespoons butter.

Total calories, 4182. Protein, 532; fat, 1723; carbohydrate, 1821. Iron .0274 gram.

There have been so many inquiries as to how to arrange the menus for the day that I have planned the breakfast using the first six items. Lunch, dinner and supper can be arranged to suit the convenience and needs of the individual.

Remove the stones from large sweet cherries and fill with Neufchatel cheese moistened with heavy cream and combined with finely chopped pecans. Serve on hearts of lettuce with a whipped cream dressing. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

TWO-STRAP SHOES
The two-strap model with low or medium heel, of patent, calf or lizard skin, is a favorite in footwear for the tailored suit.

SUMMER FUR
Summer ermine is used for the sport coats for summer as well as for collars on coats and suits.

BLACK FROCKES
Black chiffon, lace or tulle frockes, mounted over flesh-colored foundations, are exceedingly smart.

NEW LINGERIE
It is interesting to notice how the latest lingerie follows the tailored mode, and tucked bosoms and Peter Pan necks are featured on pink crepe nightgowns.

SATIN COAT
The black satin coat of this season makes itself unusually attractive by following the new Directorate line with one or more shoulder capes, and uses rows of buttons most knowingly.

"I guess you think I am a big fool, Leslie."

"Perhaps you did the same thing I would have done myself. But anyway, you certainly have kicked up a mess. If you had to put that money in my safe, why did you wait until so late in the afternoon?"

"Well, you see, Leslie, I was awfully busy until just before closing and I thought I would get away before Jack came in. Was he awfully angry?"

"Very. He told me never to speak to you again. He seems to think Harry sent you that money to pay on his debts and that you were putting it to your own use."

"Can you beat that, Leslie? To think that Jack of all men could expect Harry Ellington, who betrayed him in every way possible, could ever send him back a cent of the money he stole from him. He is mighty quick to say 'the woman did it.'"

"Don't feel hurt, Ruth. I wouldn't have told it to you at all, but we have got to reach some plan of action in the matter."

"What have you already told Jack, Leslie?"
"I declined to tell him anything."

Furnace Needs Attention Now For Next Year

Those who use separate heating-stoves during the Winter know that it is a good thing to get them down and out of the way as soon as possible. If possible, where the climate is moist, there is great danger of rust forming on any uncovered cast-iron or steel parts. This makes it necessary to go over all such parts with a good oil. This oil, thoroughly rubbed in, forms a protective coating which prevents the air from coming in contact with the metal and hence prevents the rust from forming. Use an oil that is sufficiently heavy to stay on the stove once you have applied it. If you attempt to use fat that has been discarded for cooking purposes, remember it must be unsalted, as salt and rust are on very friendly terms.

A furnace means a different problem. After the fires are out is an excellent time to have the furnace inspected and any difficulties remedied. Hot-air furnaces are often accused of being dirty. Every one admits that they have their faults as well as their virtues; but do not blame them entirely if the trouble is in part your own. Does a great deal of dirt and dust come out of your registers and settle throughout the room with the hot air? Then look down beneath your register and into the pipes a distance and you will often find its hiding-place.

Sometimes the dirt is almost "fettled" together so that, quite a strip can be pulled out at a time. All of this needs to be cleaned out; and if it has gone so far as to require the taking down of pipes, you may need a furnace-cleaner for the job. However, if you have a vacuum cleaner, here is a good use for it. The small nozzle attachment, without the brush, used at the end of the hose can reach a considerable distance and will take up a large amount of dirt. Pull the hose out now and then in order to be sure that it is not choked.

Cold-air intakes and their pipes need cleaning just as the registers and pipes do. As soon as the registers, pipes and the intakes are cleaned, close them and leave them closed throughout the summer.

Set Table So Child Learns Good Manners

Hot-water and steam-heating furnaces present different problems. Here, too, a general inspection of the furnace and of the pipes is advisable. It is well to drain off the water from the boiler until it is evident that the loose sediment and deposit have been flushed out. When the water begins to run clear, discontinue drawing it off and add enough more water to fill the system with the required amount. meal. Children will then know the thing to do when invited away from home.

The napkin is placed at the left of the fork with the loose edges parallel to the edge of the table and to the forks, so that the monogram, if there is one will be in the right position. Dinner napkins should be folded square and laid flat on the table.

The silver is placed in the order of its use, the piece to be used first at the outside edge. Knives are placed at the right of the plate with the cutting edges turned inward. The spoons, bowls up, are placed beyond the knife. Forks are found at the left of the plate, tines up.

The cup and saucer, that they may be conveniently used in the right hand, are placed at the right of the plate. The glass is placed at the tip of the knife, the bread and butter at the tip of the fork. The salad is placed at the left, "side dishes" at the right.
